Hey Michael,

Is there a specific reason that you feel this way? All the other manage links open in the same window (as do all other links in Clearspace, IIRC).

Thanks,

Vinh

I guess this was just based on the assumption that help documentation always opens in a new window or popup to avoid interrupting what's going on in the application - e.g. if you have a subset of the group members selected on the manage page and then need help, you should be able to click on the help link without losing your selection.

That said - I submitted this without thinking too much about it, and I definitely can see arguments on each side.

Help link on "Manage Group Members"...

Thanks for the clarification. I've opened up an enhancement request with JIRA ID CS-9043. During the next feature/improvement pass, the development team will take a look at it and make a decision on whether we should go forward with opening Help links in a new window or keep them within the same window.

Please let me know if you need anything else,
