Google Drive Module for Jive — enterprise-class content sharing for Jive communities

The Google Drive module for Jive brings Google's cloud-based content-sharing to Jive communities, enabling users to transfer files of any size with robust security and drag-and-drop simplicity. You can quickly and easily share and collaborate on files stored in Google Drive from inside Jive. Or you can work in Google Drive directly. Both Jive and Google Drive are synchronized automatically, so content stays current regardless of which environment you're working in.

Transparent, synchronized sharing

Savvy IT organizations are cutting infrastructure and operational costs through increased use of cloud services, including cloud-based storage. The Google Drive for Jive module allows companies to leverage standardization of the storage platform by seamlessly integrating it with their Jive deployment for binary file storage.

You can transparently share files with your colleagues in Jive or with outside collaborators who are using Google Drive. When you add or change a document in a Google Drive folder, you'll see the changes reflected instantly in Jive. The same thing happens in Google Drive when you add or change a doc in Jive. Whether you're working in your browser, Jive for Office, your Jive mobile app, the Google Drive mobile app, all files and comments are sync'ed across all systems. Searching is integrated too, so you can easily find content whether it resides in Jive or Google Drive.
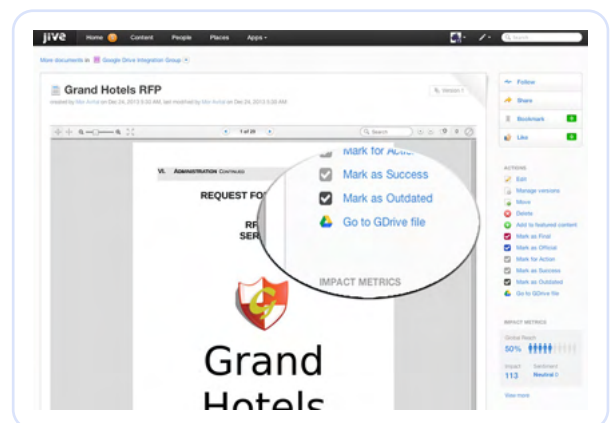

A place for everything

Administrators have the option to either use Google Drive as the de-facto standard for all binary file storage or let space and group owners decide whether to use Google Drive for storage.
